Your work Internet Source Matches

The 'Compare sources' window shows a match between the user's work and an internet source (www.alooba.com). The match is highlighted in red, and the text is identical in both versions.

- When using quotes remember to put quotation marks and cite the author.
- Remember that if you don't give credit to an author it counts as plagiarism. Everything you cite needs to be in your reference list at the end of your paper. Click on the Citation generator to generate a reference list.

How to interpret your AI (ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE) Detector Report

AI Content Detected	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> When separate sentences are flagged you do not have anything to worry about.
Likely AI-Generated	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> When the detector highlights whole paragraphs, you will need to change these parts in your assignment before submitting your paper for a second time. When significant parts of the text or the whole paper are marked as AI-generated, your paper will be analysed by your lecturer. You will need to provide evidence of the sources you have used or be charged with plagiarism.

How to interpret your Similarity report

The similarity total shows how much of the text in the assignment matches other sources. Citations and references are excluded by default.

On the righthand, you can find the list of sources where similarities were found with a submitted text. The percentage of a source shows how much text was found in this source. By clicking on a source, you can see matching text with darker highlights.

You may find that there are parts in your assignment where the score is remarkably high because you have included the assignment questions in your paper or have used a formula. This you do not need to worry about.

If you are unsure if your similarity score is too high, ask your lecturer what the threshold is that has been assigned.

Remember to write your assignment in your own words. This will lower your similarity score. Before resubmitting your assignment try and change some of the text where your similarity score is remarkably high. Always give credit to the author of the source you have used, to avoid plagiarism.

Identical	Word-to-word matches mean that the text was copied from another source without any credit to the author. Remember that you need to add quotation marks for direct quotations and give credit to the author to avoid plagiarism.
Changed text	This shows rearranged or paraphrased text. Remember to give credit to the sources you have used even if you have changed the text.

What happens when plagiarism is suspected?

Please refer to NGI018 Student Code of Conduct and Disciplinary Policy on actions and penalties applied if plagiarism is detected. The policy is available on myNGI on the Student Support Page – Student Policies.
